He got this idea while attending a statistical workshop, watching the presenter erasing and writing formula and value over and over again. It is well known as “ms-Excel” among the masses of entrepreneurs, businessmen and professionals. Thus, this new version of Excel was introduced as “ms-excel Ã¨. It was one of the first worksheets to use a graphical interface with drop-down menus and a point and click capacity using a mouse pointing device. “The ms-Excel spreadsheet is a very useful tool for calculation and numerical operations. Despite having mass acceptance for the “r1c1” style cell address style, Microsoft facilitated both addressing styles. They wanted to be able to change numbers in their circles and update their final answers. Dan Bricklin built the first-level spreadsheet software with just 5 columns and 20 rows. They thought of it as a “visual calculator” and that’s why they named it Visicalc. Before Microsoft Excel, a Harvard MBA student and his former classmate MIT built the first spreadsheet software for Apple II.it was 1979 and Dan Bricklin and Bob Frankston wanted to see their calculators come to life. Later, Dan Bricklin and Bob Frankston form a company called “Visicorp” to research these powerful “electronic cells”! They worked hard together and the first spreadsheet software “Visicalc” was introduced by the fall of 1978. 1978.
